MARCH 1 CIT CONSIDERIT PRESENTATION

"ConsiderIT with Colleagues -- Teaching with Technology at UNC-Chapel Hill" is a series sponsored by the Center for Instructional Technology. Faculty, TAs, and staff are invited to share and discuss selected teaching and learning issues related to technology. A faculty member, graduate teaching associate, or instructional support staff begins each program with a ten-minute presentation on the selected issue. This introduction is followed by questions and a group discussion.

"Medium and Method: Talk, Chalk, and Website in the Classroom"
Who: Jim Noblitt, Professor, Romance Languages
When: Friday, March 1, 12:00 - 12:50 p.m.
Where: The Johnston Center for Undergraduate Excellence, Seminar Room 213

Professor Noblitt's first-year seminar is entitled, "Language Instinct: Orality and Literacy in the Information Age." His students examine how information technologies influence the way people think. Noblitt believes online learning expands the familiar linear curriculum (with lectures and books) to embrace a relational curriculum (with forums and websites). The talk will be illustrated with online samples of curriculum, resources, forums, and students' projects on the Internet. Discussion will follow.

2002 UNC TEACHING AND LEARNING WITH TECHNOLOGY CONFERENCE

This annual event provides an opportunity for communication, networking, and dialogue among faculty, staff, and administrators throughout the UNC system who are interested in the effective use of technology for teaching and learning. The two themes for this year's conference are Faculty Development and Recognition, and Making Collaboration Happen. The conference is jointly sponsored by the UNC Teaching and Learning with Technology (TLT) Collaborative and the Faculty Assembly.

When: April 11-13, 2002
Where: Greensboro, NC
